Hi Team,

My name is James from the OpenStack Support team in Australia, assisting you on this case during APAC business hours.

Looking at your attachments, you definitely have Fast Datapath available in your Subscriptions, but it doesn't appear to me like the correct pool was consumed, and seeing your commands below, I see you weren't specific about which pool ID to attach. What if you specifically attempt to attach the correct pool ID, instead of using the `--auto` feature of `subscription-manager`-- you can do so via the below.

```
sudo subscription-manager attach --pool 2c94949085c53f9a0185ca56e6532e70
```

At that point, attempt to enable the following repos, like so:

```
sudo subscription-manager repos \
 --disable=* \
 --enable=rhel-8-for-x86_64-baseos-eus-rpms \
 --enable=rhel-8-for-x86_64-appstream-eus-rpms \
 --enable=rhel-8-for-x86_64-highavailability-eus-rpms \
 --enable=ansible-2.9-for-rhel-8-x86_64-rpms \
 --enable=openstack-16.2-for-rhel-8-x86_64-rpms \
 --enable=fast-datapath-for-rhel-8-x86_64-rpms

Please let us know how you go.

Kind Regards,

James Mittermair, RHCE
Associate Technical Support Engineer

Hello,

From the provided sosreport, we see `Red Hat Enterprise Linux, Self-Support` subscription is attached to the server.
However to install Openstack environment, you need to attach the `Openstack` subscription.

Hello,

Greetings from Red Hat !

My name is Apoorv and I will be assisting you on this service ticket.

Thank you for the update.

Are you attaching the correct subscription to the server ?
